Albert P. Perkins, of Washington Persuades Business Men's Association to Affiliate With National Body-Funeral of George I. Henry-Giles Woodson Fined-Doctor Sues Doctor Over Automobile.

Albert P. Perkins, Washington, D. C., met members of the board of directors of the Danielson Business Men's association here Wednesday morning as a representative of the Chahmber of Commerce of the United States.

At a conference Mr. Perkins ex-plained the advantages of the local organization affiliating with the na-tional body and following his expla-nation a vote favorable to taking that action was passed.

Through this affiliation the local association gets in touch with an organization that includes in its membership nearly 900 like organizations through-out the United States. The Daniclson association will be entitled to one mem-ber of the council, as is every other organization in the membership, these councillors meeting annually in con-vention to transact business, includvention to transact business, including the election of directors.

That the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is rapidly becoming a factor in protecting the interests of the business men of the Union is dally more manifest. It is an organization that fills a need that has existed, inasmuch as there has not been a national organization to represent the business men, as there has to represent other great groups of citizens—industrial workers, manufacturers, agriculturalists, etc.

The result of a lack of a national organization of business men has been unfortunate for them many times in the past, but the United States chamber is rapidly coming to the forefront and making itself felt as a force that judiciously protects and safeguards.

FUNERAL.

George I. Henry.

The funeral of George I. Henry was held from his home at the corner of Main and Stearns streets Wednesday afternoon, with services at the Westfield Congregational church at 1 o'clock. Delegations representing McGregor post, G. A. R., McGregor's Woman's Relief corps and Camp Colonel Edward Anderson, S. of V., were in attendance. The service was conducted by Rev. Ernest A. Legg of the Methodist church. The Weldon quartet sang Beautiful Isle of Somewhere.

Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Herbert Lyman, William Keach, George Miller, Everett Colvin, A. E. Meech and Clarence Hill. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements. George I. Henry.

The speaker stated that the proposed purchase of a motor-driven fire truck for the end of the city was in line with the recommendations made by the excharce and expressed a hope that the citizens would vote the necessary appropriation of $1,500 at the special city meeting, Friday.

Mr. Caldwell also touched on the present water supply and made suggestions in line with those recently made by the water commissioners to the common council as to better pumping facilities, a better and greater volume of distribution, large reservoir supply, more hydrants and a general overhauling of the plant.

He also spoke of several matters that would put the fire department on a more efficient basis, such as a contain number of paid men on duty at all times, recommended changes in the present fire alarm system and more careful inspection of electric wiring in buildings.

Eve the First Gambler.

The various standards of morals The various standards of morals makes the policeman's duties complex. He illustrated this by the inborr gambling instinct, citing Eve as the first gambler willing to take a chance, eating of the forbidden fruit to find out what God meant by good and evil. He cited the instance of boys beginning their games and playing marbles for "keeps" and later playing cards with the idea that as it was their own money at stake it was no one's busimoney at stake it was no one's busi-ness what they did with it. DEFINE DUTIES OF

THE HEALTH OFFICIALS s Recommendation of State Board of Health in Annual Report.

State Board of Health in its annual report to the governor is that the duties and relationships of various health officials he defined for the de-velopment of an effective and har-monious organization. The report

It is with keen regret that the board reports the death of one of its members, Dr. Joseph H. Townsend, who died Jan. 7, 1916, at his home in New Haven, after a brief illness with pneumonia. Dr. Townsend had been a member of this board since 1991, and its secretary since 1996. By his death the state lost a most capable and conscientious official.

Dr. Albert W. Phillips, of Derby, and Dr. Louis J. Pons, of Milford, were appointed by you on May 1, 1915, to serve on the board for six years from July 1, 1915, both being reappointments.

Dr. John T. Black, of New London was appointed by the board on January 18, 1918, as secretary and exofficio member, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Town-

The most serious and widespread epidemic in years, and one which caused great consternation was the invasion of inconsternation was the invasion of in-fantile paralysis during the past sum-mer. The rapid progress of this dis-ease, with its high fatality, resulted in a near-panic. Hundreds of appeals to the state board of health for as-sistance had to be ignored for lack of authority and funds. Conn, the laboratory, located in Middletown, has rendered excellent service and one that is appreciated by health officers and physicians alike. The operations have more than doubled since our last report, the greatest increase being noted in Wasserman tests. Some research work has been done, largely in the study of oysters. Members of the laboratory staff have assisted in the survey of water sheds and in the study of the pollution of streams.

Practically the entire activity of the pollution of streams.

Practically the entire activity of the board along these lines has been the study of sewage disposal, stream pollution and water sheds. With the passage of the acts by the last legislature conferring upon the board additional powers and responsibilities along these lines, the work has materially increased. No specific appropriation to carry out the intent of the acts was made, and the efforts of the board have been necessarily confined to considering plans for future operations. These plans have been worked out and the board is prepared to go forward with them as soon as the state makes an appropriation. The preliminary work of preparation has disclosed certain weaknesses in the acts and the board will submit amendments to the incoming assembly designed to correct these weaknesses and make them operative.

When we real-ize that out of sixteen municipal and town sewage treatment plants in the state but three are disposing of sew-age satisfactorily, immediate action should be forthcoming. The need of authority to conserve and protect the rights of smaller towns to a pure and liberal supply of water, and the sistence on the recognition of this right by the larger municipalities and companies, when making provisions for increasing their supplies, is im-perative. More definite control over the schools and public institutions of the state from a sanitary standpoint is desirable, specific powers in treat-ing nulsances, such as abbatoirs ren-dering and all other industrial plants, which are liable to pollute the all and water of a community, are needed, as well as control of suburban land developments in respect to wa-

1. To give the state board of health authority to adopt and enforce a sanitary code, and to fix standards of qualification for health officers and to appoint certain division heads and health officers.

2. To provide for an epidemiologist and sanitary engineers, and for four deputy state health officers to be as-

3. To permit adjoining towns to consolidate for the purpose of employing a full-time health officer and to permit the nomination of the health officer by them.

4. To define the duties and relationships of various health officials for ionships of various health officials for the development of an effective and harmonious organization. In making these recommendations the board board has carefully con-sidered their feasibility and has recommended only such measures as have been demonstrated elsewhere to be practical and efficient.
